

1987 AOH St. Pat's Day Run

Saturday, 14 March – “Fired Up for 1987.” The $8 race entry fee earned the first 250 entrants a t-shirt emblazoned with the image of the Christmas day fire that burned the Knights of Columbus Hall, destroying much of the AOH memorabilia and regalia. Runners (and walkers too for the first time ever) gathered to load into school busses for transport to the starting lines of the 3 and 6 miles races at 10:30 a.m. at the traditional staging area behind the Locker Room Bar, but there were so many runners that the busses didn't leave for the start until 30 minutes later. Runners experienced pleasant weather for the races, and after they were done, runners had the opportunity to enjoy barbeque beef sandwiches, salads and refreshments with family and friends for a nominal additional fee.
