Saturday, 12 March –Despite a chilling headwind, a record total of 660 participants finished this year's AOH races. The previous record of 590 was set last year. The races were advertised to start at 11 a.m., but they didn't actually go off until 11:52. The extra time was used shuttling runners by bus to their respective starting lines. There were only four yellow and black school busses available to transport runners, but there were enough runners to cram ten busses. After the races were completed, Race Director Mark Sweeney announced that difficult transportation logistics for this growing event may require the traditional (and highly popular) downhill race route to be redesigned into a loop that would eliminate the need for bussing.

The 3-mile races featured close finishes for both the males and females. Anaconda's sensational high school runner, Olivia Wood, came from behind late in the 3-mile to pass Butte's Amber Wood-Jensen for a 7-second victory in the female division. Olivia Wood finished in 19:11.

Helena's charismatic Thomas Jodoin, who is becoming known for his playful false identities (last year he entered as "Big Bird" and this year he entered as "Kyle Dan Patrick" in homage to his three Irish-ish training partners) returned to claim his third consecutive victory, but not without difficulty. Jodoin pulled away from everyone early in the race, but twice later gimped to a halt due to an injured hamstring. Jodoin's pauses allowed one of his partners (Patrick Judge) to make up ground, but Jodoin ultimately managed to cross the finish line 5 seconds clear of Judge with a winning time of 15:13. After Jodoin limped through the finish, he said that his injury would likely prevent him from racing again throughout spring and summer.

Jodoin Corrects: Big Bird is not a false identity. I have had that as my running name since week 2 of cross country my freshman year of high school. [Jodoin is now 30 years old] That was exactly 14 days since I had begun running. The name was given to me by our team captain, Larry Henderson (California Division I state x-country champ 1995), who observed that I had no arm movement when I ran. While things have improved considerably the Ostrich like form is still around and I am still known as Big Bird.
